

Post-Watching: Milling around

Being a homemaker is just as valuable as having a career.

Would you like to be a #tradwife / #tradh husband?

Feminism and the #tradwife movement cannot coexist.

Women's empowerment means that they not only have to care for children and housework but also work a full-time job.

Men and women have naturally different roles in society.

Tradwives only want public acknowledgment and praise for their lifestyle; otherwise, they wouldn't publish every move they make online.

A woman should have the right to choose any lifestyle—even if it means depending on a man.

The tradwife movement is a step backward for gender equality.

Feminism is about making choices. If a woman chooses to be a tradwife, this is a feminist act.

Is financial independence necessary for true freedom?

There is nothing wrong with caring for your partner and dividing tasks equally.

Can you be a feminist and a tradwife at the same time?

Social media has glorified the tradwife lifestyle and made it seem easier than it really is.

Men and women are happiest when they follow traditional gender roles.

Why should all women support the feminist cause? Wouldn't it be more reasonable to accept that some do not feel included?

An individual choice of lifestyle should not be judged by others.